Regis College

Weston, Massachusetts

To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven:
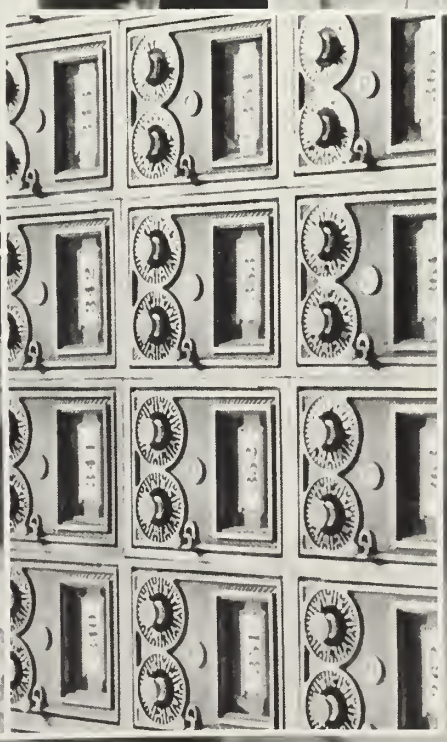
A time to be born, and a time to die:
a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted;

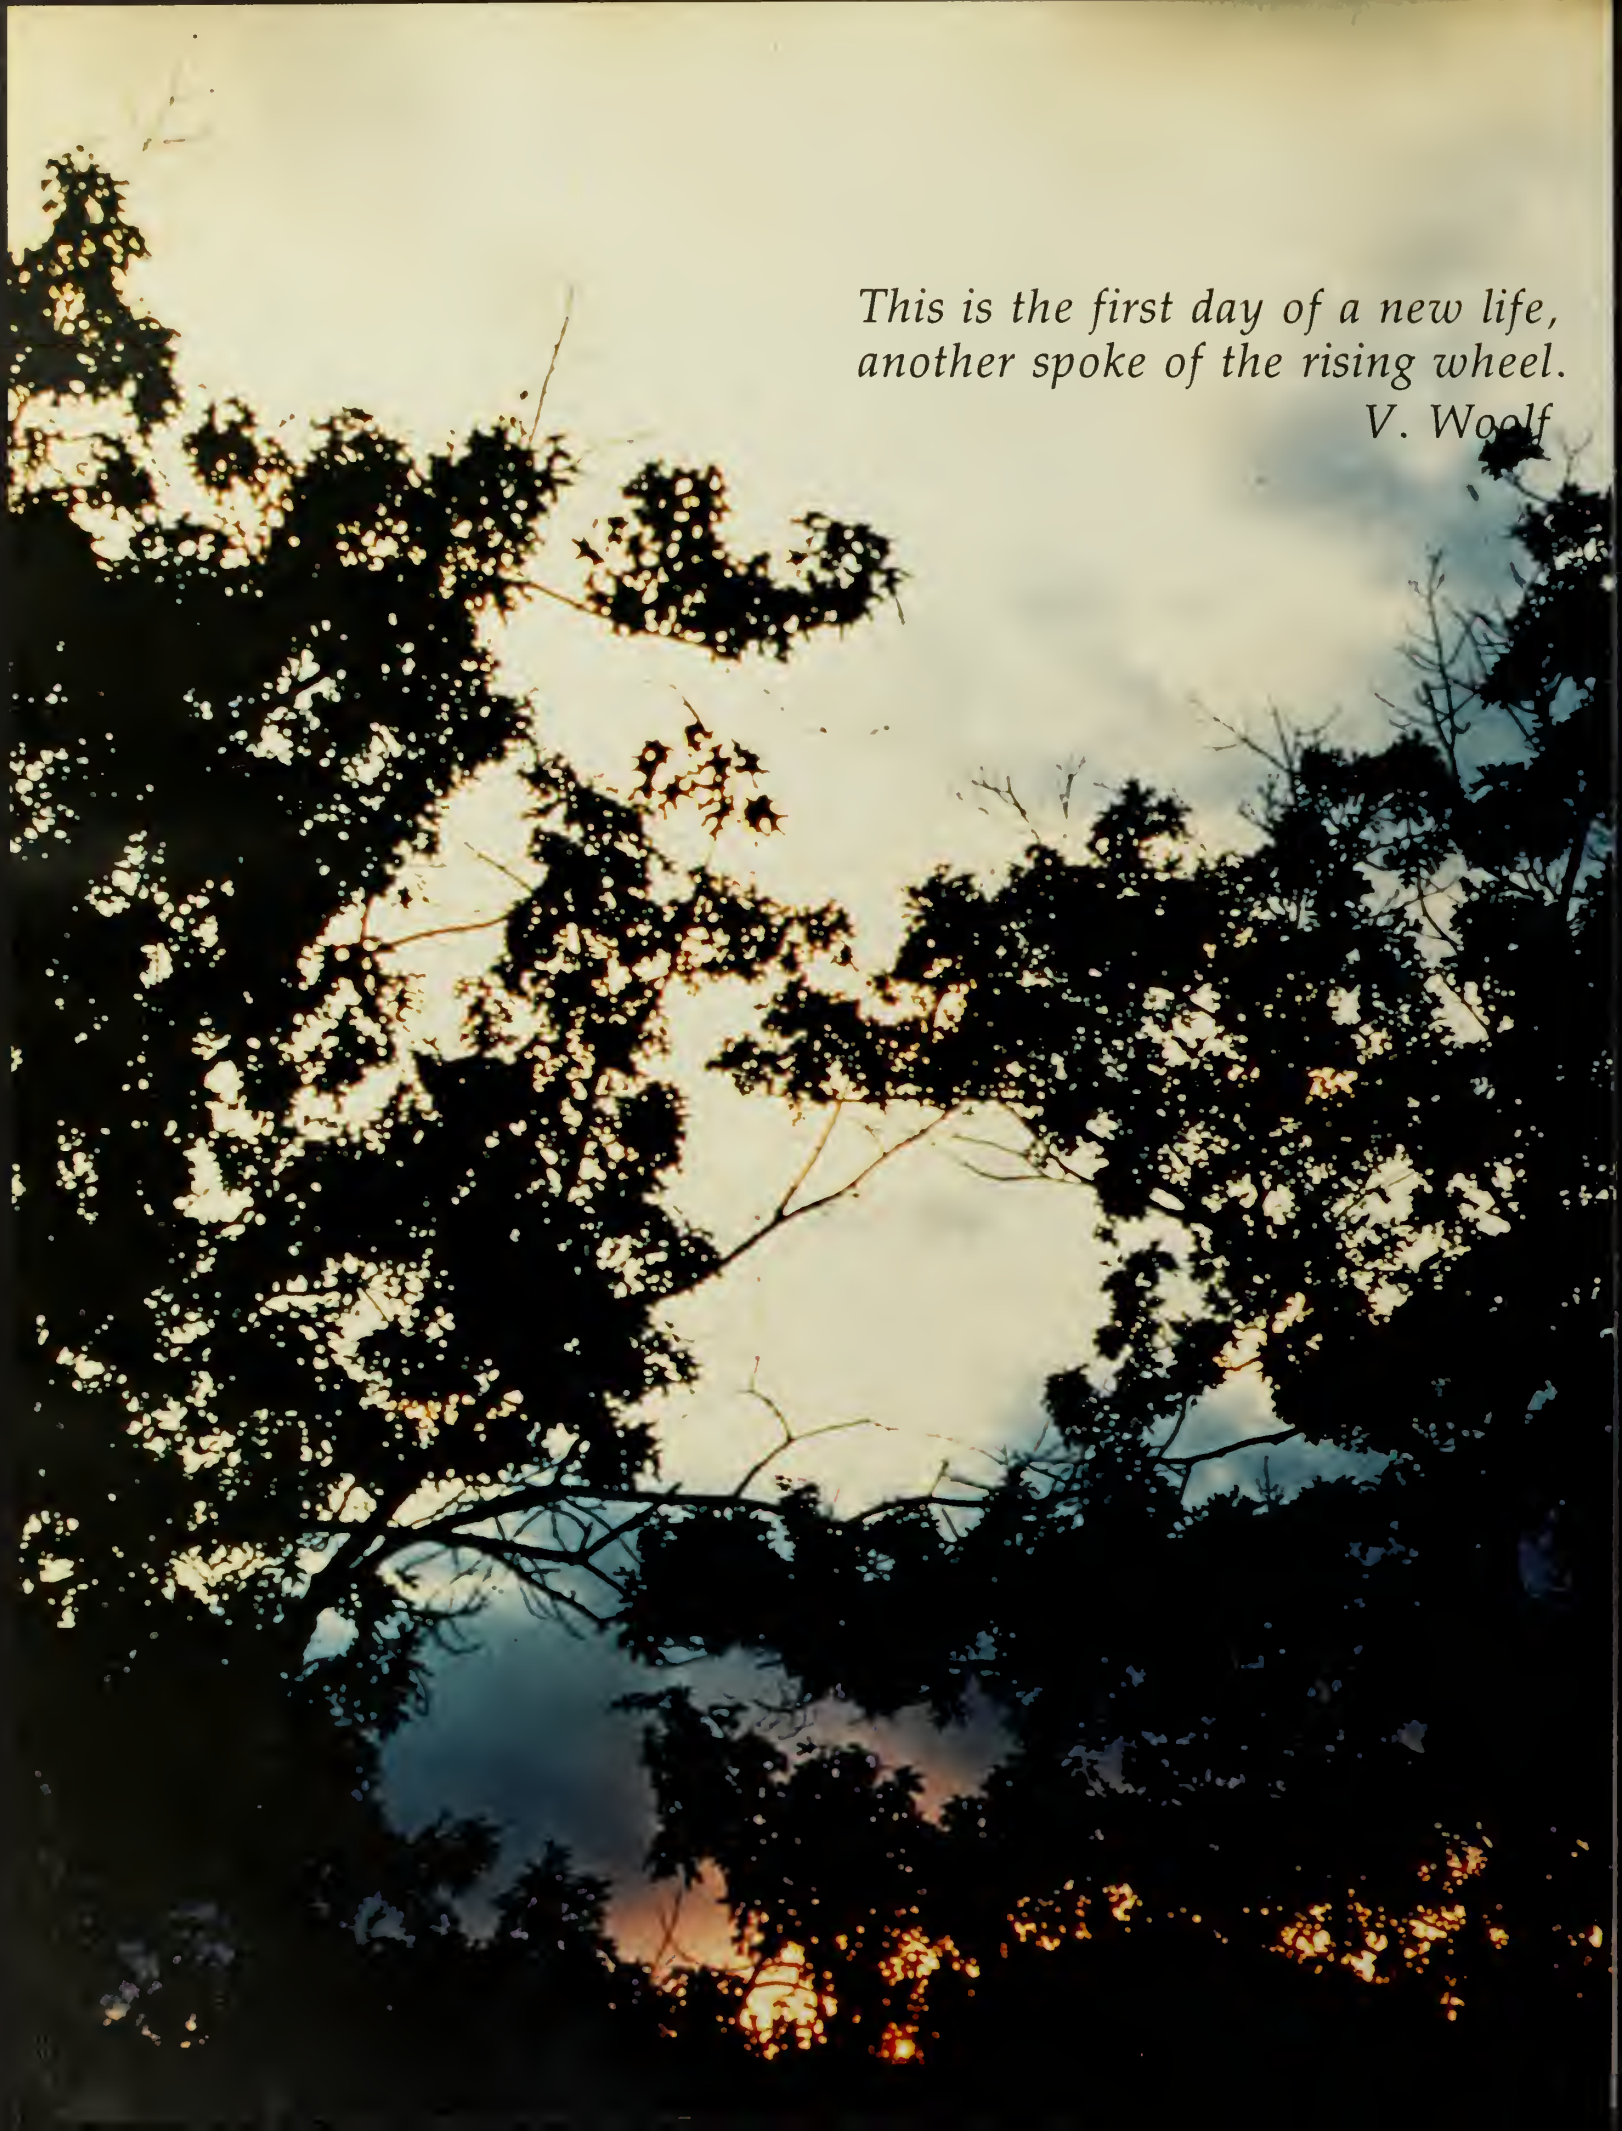


A time to kill, and a time to heal;
a time to break down, and a time to build up;
A time to weep, and a time to laugh;
a time to mourn, and a time to dance;

A time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together;
a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;
a time to get, and a time to lose;
a time to keep, and a time to cast away;

A time to rend, and a time to sew;
a time to keep silence, and a time to speak;
A time to love, and a time to hate;
a time of war, and a time of peace.

Ecclesiates 3:1-8



This is the first day of a new life,
another spoke of the rising wheel.
V. Woolf

To describe women, the pen should be dipped in the humid colors of the rainbow, and the paper dried from the wings of a butterfly.
Diderot

We compiled the following pages to represent the many facets of a women's life at Regis. We, the editors, merely ask the reader to pause and to think, and to try and understand her part in this book and our college.

WHERE'S BOSTON? ENTER STREET SIDE

Just once I knew what life was for
In Boston, quite suddenly, I understand, walked there along the Charles River, watched the lights copying themselves,
all neoned and strobe-hearted, opening their mouths as opera singers.

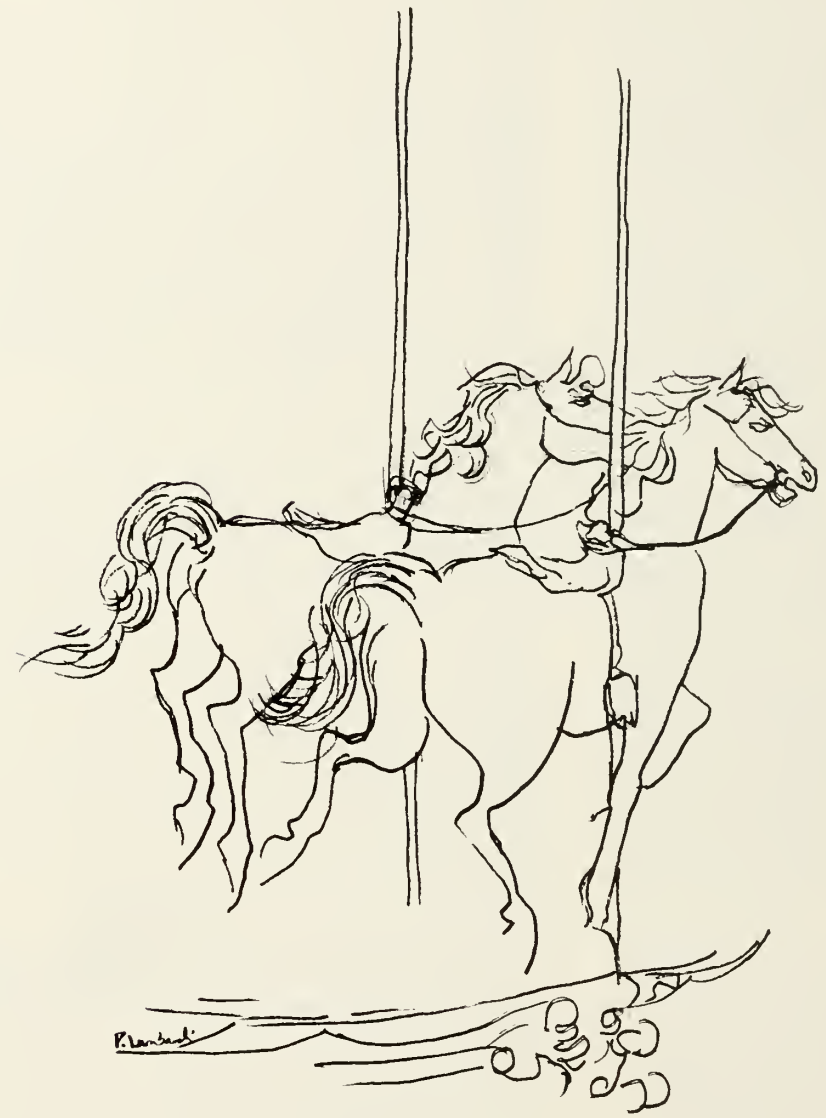
Anne Sexton



" . . . the seasons, they go
'round and 'round
And the painted ponies go up and down
We're captive on a carousel of time.
We can't return, we can only look behind from where we came,
And go 'round and 'round and 'round in the circle game . . . "

Joni Mitchell

When You Are Old

When you are old and grey and full of sleep,
And nodding by the fire, take down this book,
And slowly read, and dream of the soft look,
Your eyes had once, and of their shadows deep;

How many loved your moments of glad grace,
And loved your beauty with false love as true,
But one man loved the pilgrim soul in you.
And loved the sorrows of your changing face;

And bending down besides the glowing bars,
Murmur, a little sadly, how love fled
And paced upon the mountains overhead
And hid his face amid a crowd of stars.

Some say our year has finally come to an end. Has it?
How can one end four years of laughter, tears, heartaches and joys . . .
how can one separate a class'
that has become inseparable . . .
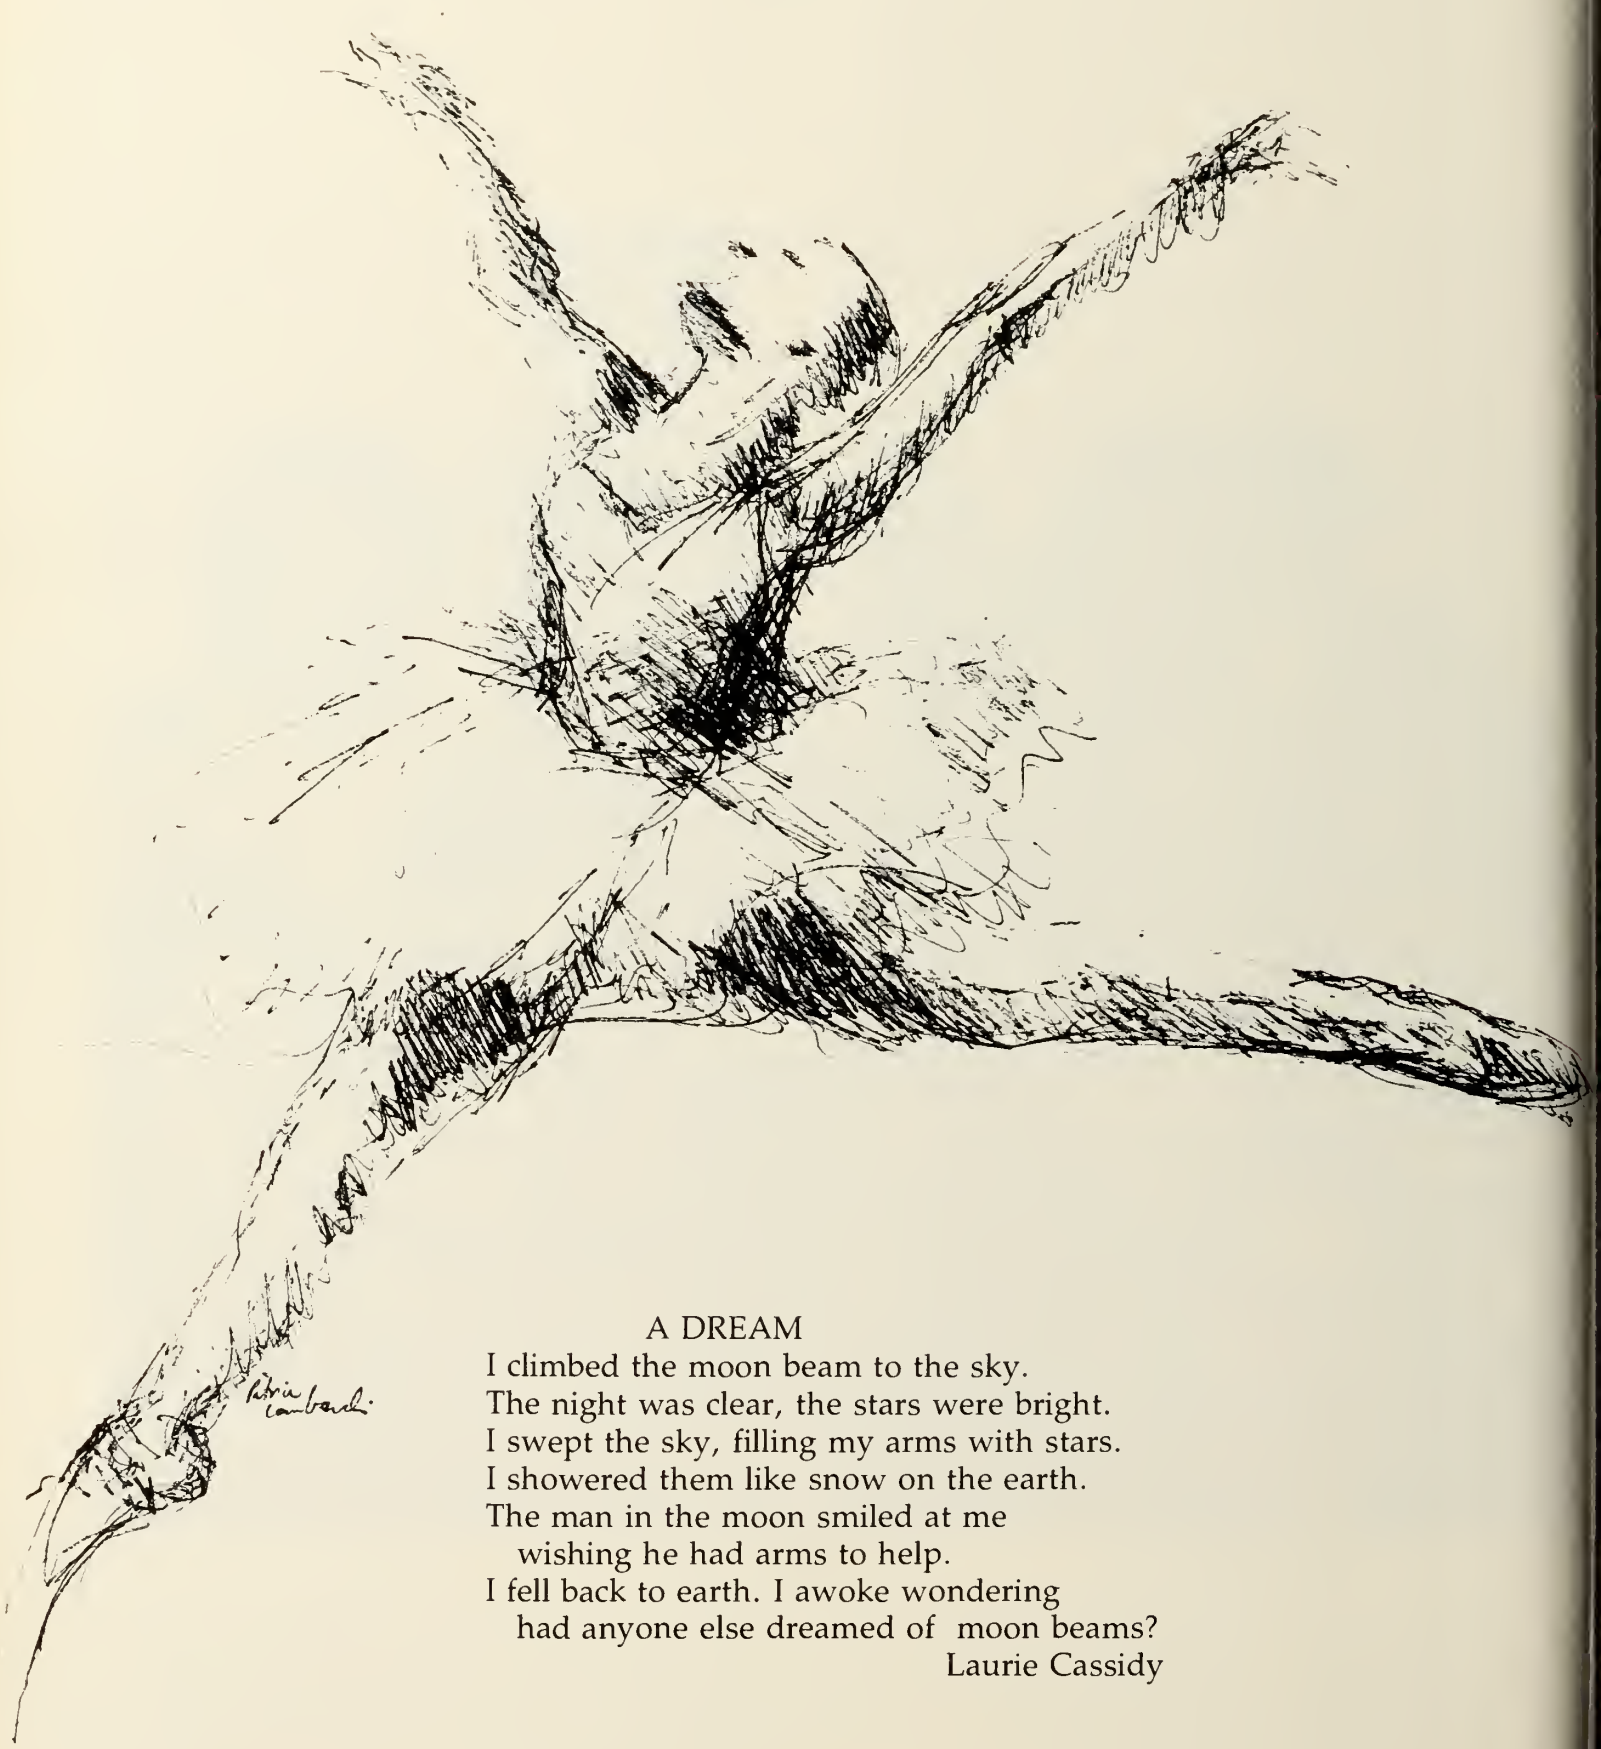
how can one break apart the friendships built on love and understanding . . .
no, our year is not ending,
for always will we continue to be a part,
a part of '80.



A DREAM

I climbed the moon beam to the sky.
The night was clear, the stars were bright.
I swept the sky, filling my arms with stars.
I showered them like snow on the earth.
The man in the moon smiled at me wishing he had arms to help.
I fell back to earth. I awoke wondering had anyone else dreamed of moon beams?

Somebody told me a friendship is built on time,
but it isn't true.
It sure didn't take me long to find,
the friend I needed in you.

"By participating in an intellectual life that has been broad and deep and freely chosen, you have been learning who you are and preparing yourself for a truly authentic life. Once you have a grasp of this, and have tested and reinforced it so that you have developed an inherent sense of self, or what we might call self confidence, you will find yourself capable of applying what you have learned to a multplicity of life situations, decisions and delemmas. That is, the freedom of your educational experience at Regis translates into an understanding of yourself that frees you to accept responsibility for yourself."

Perhaps an even more sustaining outcome of your friendships here will be their continuation in the years to come. What you have shared here, during a special and critical time of your life, will always be evident in the strength and durability of your friendships. Time and distance may preclude face-to-face interaction, but they will never bring about the loss of an important and significant friendships. Over and over again — five years from now, fifty years from now — you will celebrate the friendship related to your sojourn in this place. And that will refresh you, and make you glad.

COLLECTION

Photo albums
Creased and worn,
The breath of time.
A yearbook, birthday cards,
diploma, Growth.
The tumble of memorabilia,
Letters from home, written by Mom
To her "daughter in college."
Family dinners and afternoons at Grandma's,
"Wishing she was there."

Tears on a trembling smile.
A sigh acknowledges
The passage of time.

FLIGHT

Trip,
Stumble and fall.
Lying flat
Trying to understand
To know your mind
To know yourself.

Light
Wisdom
Coming from above
from afar.
Moving closer
You pick up its scent
No escape.
Become engulfed.

Totally submerged,
Take it all in.
Open your eyes
Raise your head.
Pick yourself up
Take a step.
Fly.

Circular Epic

On distinct shores of the pool their memoir opens.
Bringing separate secrets
two dive together,
exchange eternal bands,
set in motion the first ring.
At the center
He vibrated; they echoed His pattern.
Their oneness resounded in a new ring.
Then,
slowly five more,
each a reply to Love.

Twenty-one years
now and six rings still reverberate encircling the two.
The nucleus of all,
the heart of each,
still Him.
Two more stand on different shores preparing to dive.
The living example of the first two is a source of strength.

His Design continues.

Lorraine F. Leonard

Discovery of Flight

Vulnerable,
The young bird flutters
In her gilded cage.
Freedom is tinged with sorrow
As memories blend with expectations.
Wings, no longer clipped,
Prepare her for flight.
She is heavy with cares and fears,
And a sense of unfolding excitement.
Awkward,
She starts on her perch
And eyes a world filled
With bittersweet possibilities.

Catherine Barrett

Fairy Tales and Growing Pains

Ugly Duckling.
Ill-favored, uncompromising child.
Unexpectedly you grow beautiful,
Even remarkable,
Like the little swan in Hans Christian Anderson's story.

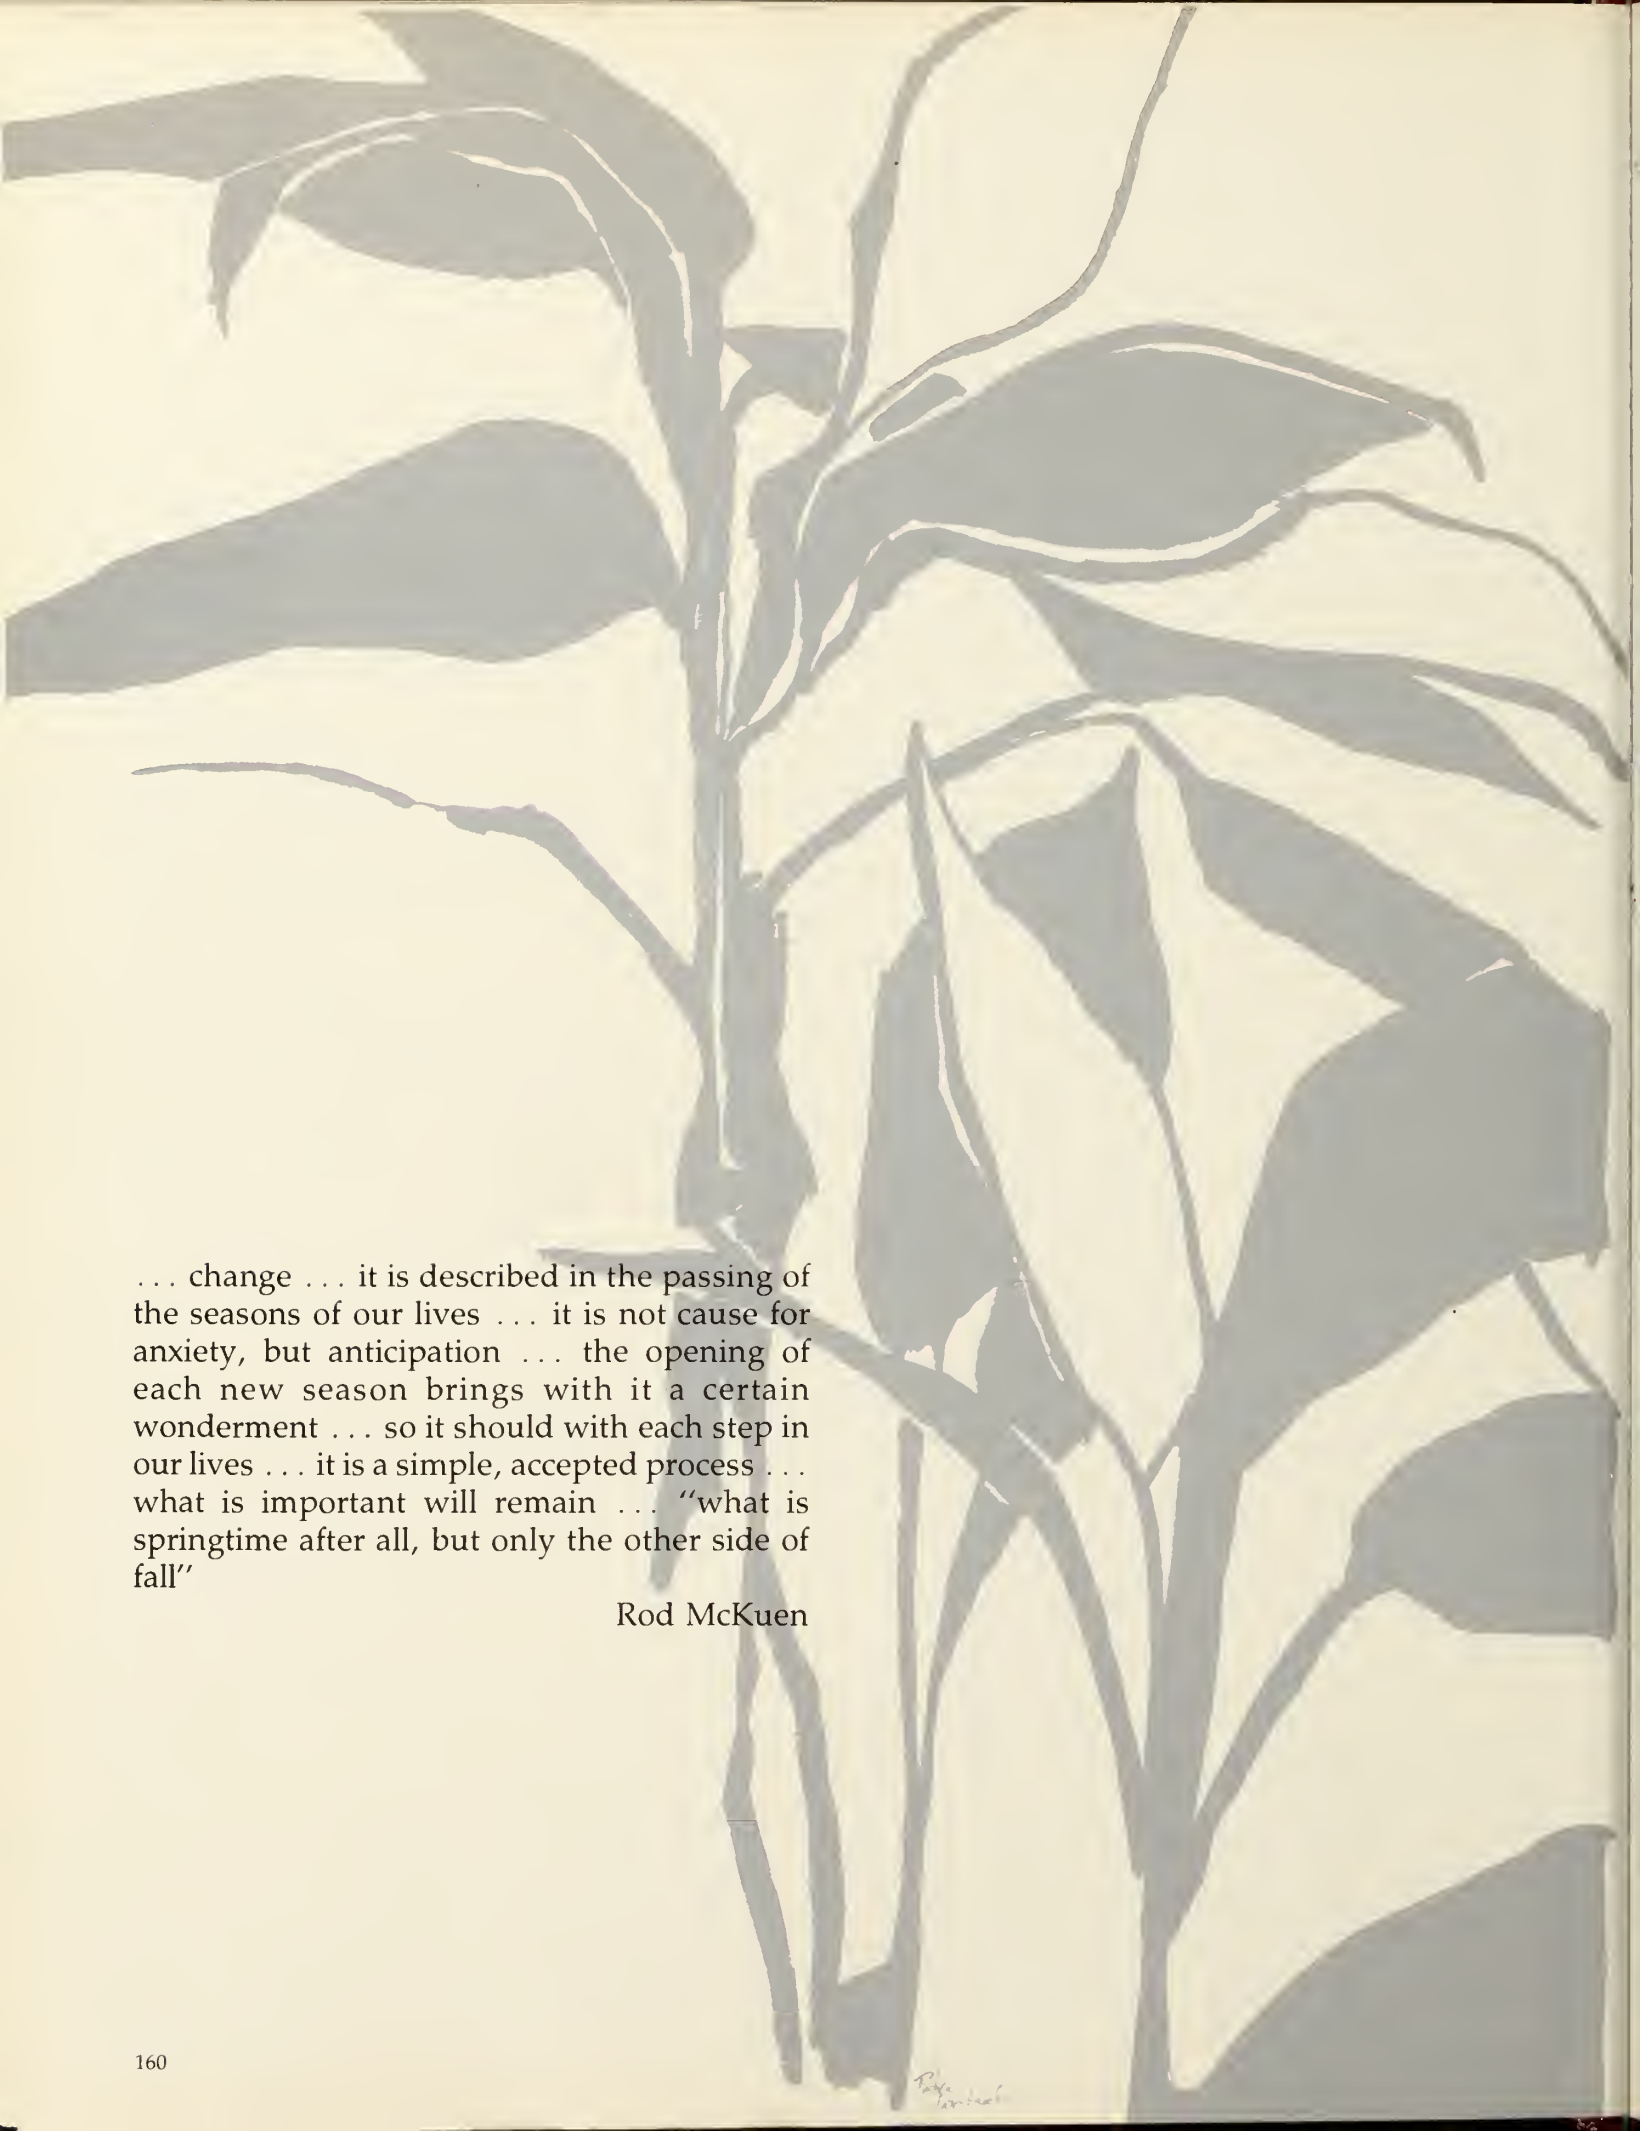
Peter Pan.
Forever free you will remain.
Perpetually a child . . . You won't grow up.
How dare society inflict adulthood on you,
Who defies Natures law for children?
Tinkerbell befriends you.
She will help battle your plight
To be forever young.

Cinderella.
YOU poor frail drudge.
Endure your period of neglect.
Then, achieve happiness and success.

Colleen F. Ahern



. . . change . . . it is described in the passing of the seasons of our lives . . . it is not cause for anxiety, but anticipation . . . the opening of each new season brings with it a certain wonderment . . . so it should with each step in our lives . . . it is a simple, accepted process . . . what is important will remain . . . "what is springtime after all, but only the other side of fall"

Rod McKuen

deep behind your eyes
I find you searching for something more but you've locked your cellar door afraid of the demons that hide within your walls they're there, you know the handle's rusted, the corner's webbed

the brick is crumbling
but you're not dead,
just half alive
afraid to feel what is there inside enchanted forest, dark and sweet it calls to you do you think you could meet yourself halfway uncover the secrets — they're the key to your destiny you want to be free there's so much more open your door . . .

I would like to thank the above and all those who contributed to the 1980 Mount Regis. Without their dedication and time, much of this book would not have been possible.

Sister Ann Marie Grady, Peter Lowy, and Miss Hughes contributed some of their fine photography that greatly enriched this book.

I must extend an especial thanks to Miss Hughes. Without her color work and aid in the darkroom the yearbook would never have been completed. She came to our aid in many a bleak hour.

Finally, I would like to thank my editorial staff. Their perseverance, hope, and talent combined to produce a yearbook that we can view with pride and special memories in the years to come.

Sincerely,
Maura A. Mannion
Editor in Chief

Reach out and take hold of the moment,
And live it to its fullest,
Don't let one second of it go by,
Until you have felt its beauty.
For soon this moment,
Like all the rest
Will become just a memory
That is thought about countless times
But lived . . . only once.

I wanna laugh while the laughin' is easy
I wanna cry if it makes it worthwhile
We may never pass this way again,
That's why I want it with you.
'Cause you make me feel like I'm more than a friend.
Like I'm on a journey and you're
The journey's end.
We may never pass this way again
We may never pass this way again.

Make new friends but keep the old; Those are silver, these are gold
New-made friendships, like new wine, Age will mellow and refine.
Friendships that have stood the test — Time and change — are surely best;
Brow may wrinkle, hair grow gray, Friendship never knows decay.
For 'mid old friends, tried and true, Once more our youth renew.
But old friends, alas! may die, New friends must their place supply.
Cherish friendship in your breast — New is good, but old is best;
Make new friends, but keep the old; Those are silver, these are gold.

Starry Starry Night
Paint your palette blue and grey Look out on a summer's day
With eyes that know the darkness in my soul.
Shadows on the hill
Sketch the trees and the daffodils.
Catch the breeze and the winter chills
In colors on this snowy linen land.
Now I understand
What you tried to say to me.
They would not listen
They did not know how Perhaps they'll listen now.
This world was never meant for one as beautiful as you.

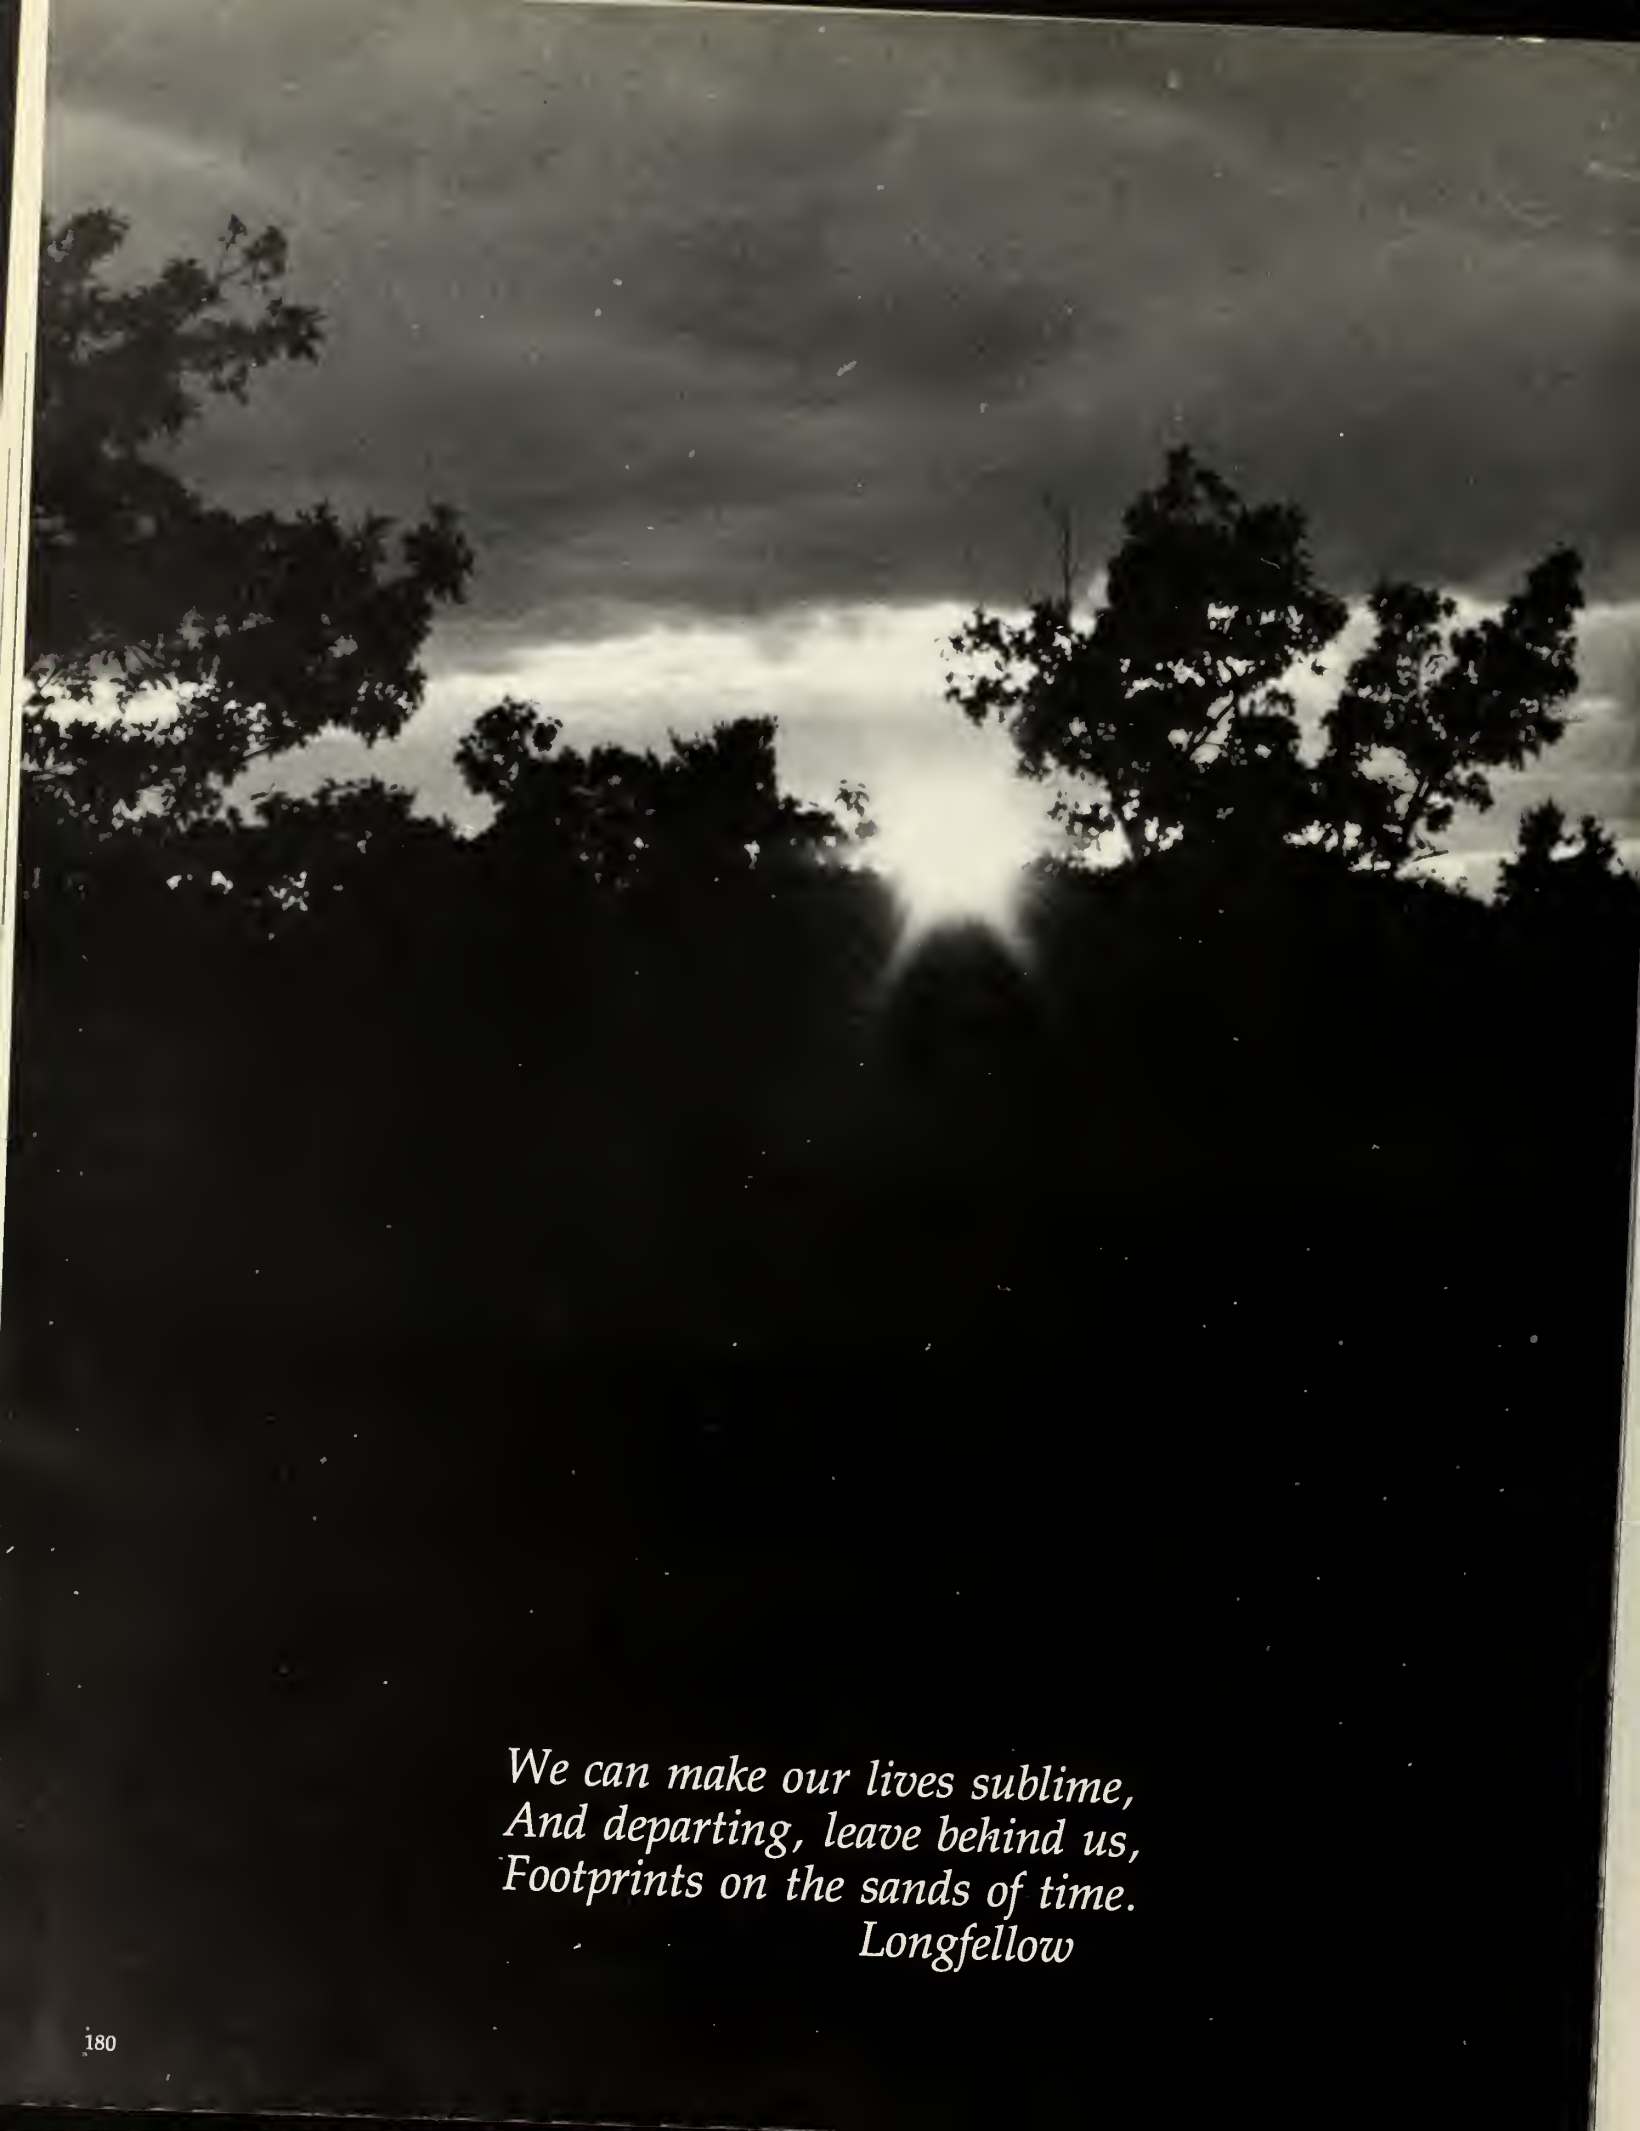
— Don McLean



We can make our lives sublime,
And departing, leave behind us,
Footprints on the sands of time.
